Narrative

Where : In a dinning room or hallway of a old Victorian house.

Why a Victorian House?

The ornate and rhythmic organized patterns reminded me of the Victorian Patterns in the Demask wall paper. What is happening? People gathering in a hallway/dining room trying to figure out who did the murder and discovering something about themselves in the process.

What is the feeling?

Organized Chaos in an antique house.

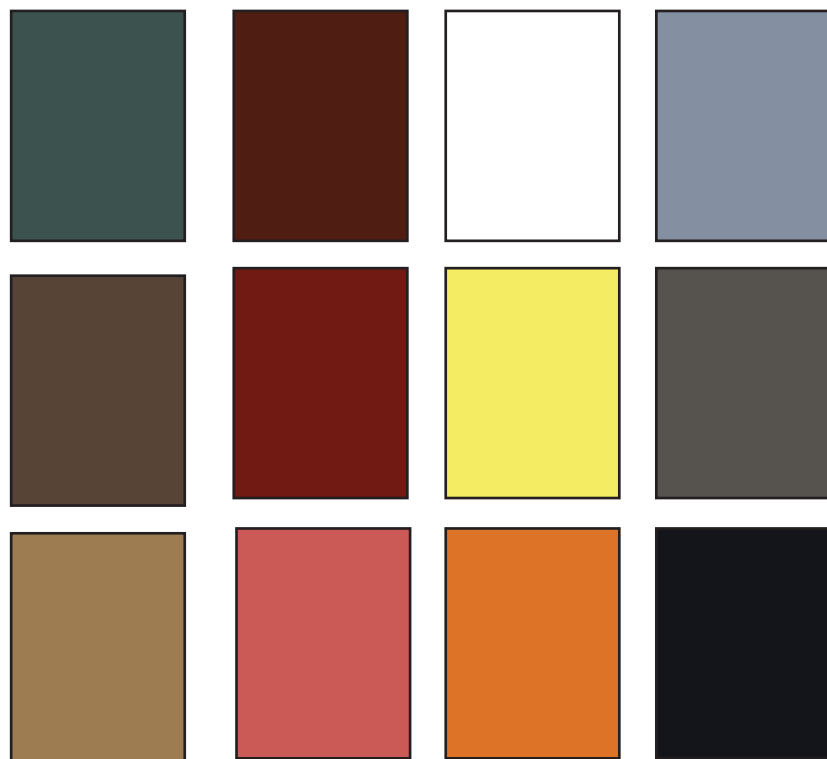

What is the idea?

The idea is the whole show takes place in a mirror/picture. A mirror of a room of pictures and mirrors. The Lace tablecloth is from a distance looks like a murder board stings of a inter-connected web. The pictures are the writing on the wall.

What is the Concept?

The concept is revealing. Revealing characteristics and connections between people. Revealing who did the crime. This is done in the process of reflection in the present through a mirror and the past through pictures. The concept of revealing was derived from the shiny surfaces. The feelings of conflict and depth was derived from the contrasting of the different interwoven textures to create the whole composition.

Colors derived from pictures.
